This shows a balance of $105,859.16 on hand for distribution. Judge Work directed that distribution be made according to the schedule attached.

The Banning will was made September 16, 1905. Thomas Banning filed renunciation and letters were granted to Elnora Banning. Upon the death or marriage of Clara Bell Stillwagon, the property reverts to the three sons, Lloyd, Vance and Russell, or their heirs, in equal shares.

United Mine Workers Are In Session

United Press Telegram.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 18.—Fifteen hundred miners from various parts of the country met this morning for the first session of the annual convention of the United Mine Workers of America. They were welcomed by the Governor and the Mayor. The day was consumed in organization of the convention. The credential committee reported this afternoon and the result of the election will be announced tomorrow.

It is generally conceded that President Thomas L. Lewis has been re-elected. Better protection of lives and the creation of a Bureau of Mines are matters to be taken up by the convention.

President Lewis, in his annual report, declares strikes, as a method of organization, are unsuccessful. He says they should be used as a last resort. Joint conference negotiations have done much to establish peace. He recommended the division of the country into scale districts. The anthracite field should be one district; Central Pennsylvania, the Irwin field, Somerset county, Pa., Maryland and parts of West Virginia shipping east should be another district; Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois and West Virginia mines shipping west should form a third district. The "star States" should be similarly divided.

He recommends a Bureau of Mines in connection with one of the government departments, or as a separate branch. He assailed "government by injunction," as applied to labor.

Snow Swept Away By Warm Rain; River Rising

For the second time this month the snow has been swept away by a drizzling rain which, on this occasion, thawed the ice covered streets and caused the river to rise nearly 3 feet over night. The moderation in temperature was general throughout this section. Throughout the night it rained and this morning the drizzle still continued. The mercury went up by leaps and bounds, rising almost 20 degrees in 24 hours. From 83 degrees yesterday morning it advanced to 41 in the evening and again rose to 50 this morning.

The river rose from an even three feet, the lowest stage reached this month, to 3.40 feet last evening. This morning it had gone up to 5.30 feet and was still rising.

DR. BURNITE SUES ROAD SUPERVISORS.

Case Was Taken Up From Redstone Township in Small Court Today.

DAMAGES ASKED FROM FALL

Herd Case Is Still On Before Judge Umbel and Defense Presents More Witnesses—Appeal Taken From Judgment by Justice of the Peace.

UNIONTOWN, Jan. 18.—Before Judge Van Swearingen this morning the suit of Dr. J. P. Burnite of South Brownsville against the supervisors of Redstone township was taken up. The defendants are Johnson Noble, J. R. Colley and H. R. Craft. Dr. Burnite wants to recover $1,350 for damages as the result of tumbling over an embankment along the public road between Brazzell and Lynn Station on the night of October 23, 1908. His auto-buggy, worth $750, was smashed in the accident, while the physician lost two weeks time.

Attorney D. W. Henderson, representing the defense, moved that the case be continued because attorneys for the plaintiff mentioned the amount of damages that were asked, but he later withdrew his motion and the case went on. Dr. Burnite says the ciner road crumbled beneath his feet and gave way, projecting him from 80 to 100 feet down the embankment. He was walking at the time, because the auto-buggy could not go up the steep grade on account of the cinchers. The auto fell over on him and was demolished. The doctor claims the supervisors were negligent in not providing a guard rail and, as evidence of their negligence, sets forth that the road has since been widened at this point.

Witnesses for the defense are still being heard in the suit of Francis F. Ford against the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. The defense is continuing its line of attempting to prove that the land was not damaged by the improvements made by the railroad in the Connellville yards.

In the suit of Catherine Ibe, executrix of the estate of Fred Huker, against C. H. Blakeny, an appeal has been taken from judgment granted the plaintiff by Justice of the Peace D. M. Eiser because no defense was entered. A court trial is asked.

In Juvenile Court an order has been made placing Eva May Morgan, the Connellville girl, under the care of Dr. A. S. Hagas, of Uniontown, subject to the surveillance of Probation Officer Charles E. O'Neill.

GOT THEIR PINS.

High School Class of 1912 Not Bounced as Reported.

The members of the class of 1912 of the High School yesterday received their pins. They were sent to the class president, Bernard McFarland. Some time ago some members of the class thought they had been bounced out of the price of their pins by the house from which they were ordered and a story to that effect was printed in a local paper.

The only trouble was that the house, an eastern firm, had trouble filling the order according to the design specified by the class.

BODY CREMATED AS SHE DESIRED.

Funeral Services for Miss Laura White Held at Pittsburgh Yesterday.

OTHER REQUEST NOT OBSERVED

Pastor Lauds Her Charity Which Was of the Warm Hearted Unostentatious Kind—Was Not a Recluse, Life One of Gentleness.

Only one of the strange provisions in the will left by Miss Laura Homans White was not carried out when the remains were prepared for final disposition yesterday. The request that her heart be placed three times before the final disposition of her body was not complied with. After funeral services in St. Raymond's chapel in Sixth avenue, Pittsburgh, the remains were cremated. The ashes were deposited in the family vault in the Allegheny cemetery.

A few of Miss White's old friends and neighbors from Lawrenceville gathered in the chapel with her relatives from Connellville when the Rev. John H. Miller, pastor of the Butler Street Methodist Episcopal Church, stood at the head of the black-shrouded casket and opened the brief services. The distressing circumstances surrounding Miss White's death in her home at No. 243 Main street, Pittsburgh, where her body lay more than a week before it was found, affected the little band of mourners. They remembered Miss White as the kindly and refined member of the Butler street church whose wealth was used in unostentatious charity to relieve the poor and whose culture and education were used in gentle ministrations to those in distress.

Her pastor spoke of these things in his address. He recalled how Miss White had devoted her Sunday afternoons in reading to a neighbor who was blind. He recalled her charity, which was the warm hearted kind of giving of which none knew except the donor and those poor families who shared her blessings. She was not a recluse, the minister said. She lived alone from choice, but her gentleness and kindness were like sunshine to those around her whose lives were cheered by her loving presence.

The minister said the community would not miss her as one who lived among them as a recluse, but as one of their neighbors whose charming personality and liberality were alike consecrated for doing good. The choir of the Butler street church sang "Rock of Ages" and "Asleep in Jesus" and closed the services with a hymn sung to the air of "Home, Sweet Home."

Dr. T. H. White, of Connellville, said he deeply regretted the circumstances attending the publicity of his cousin's death. Her brother, Major Robert White, he said, had not been found. He served more than 40 years as a surgeon in the United States army and after his retirement went to South Africa. This fact, he said, caused the report that he was a member of the British army. The White family came from Chester county, Pennsylvania. Miss White's mother having been a Virginia woman and a member of a prominent family in the Old Dominion.

"My cousin's life was devoted to travel and study," said Dr. White. "She made nine voyages across the Atlantic and was familiar with all European countries. On her last tour she took my daughter with her and they spent several months abroad. The last letter my daughter had written her was found unopened in the vestibule of Miss White's house in Main street."

B. BUONO BUMPED FOR TALKING BIG.

Said He Could Whip Any American That Ever Lived.

WAS ARRESTED WHEN HE AWOKE

Two Baltimore Men Tell of the Burden of a Job Offered Them and Their Eagerness to Get Back Home—Alice Miller Indignant.

It cost Bessimo Buono $5 for causing a disturbance in Giotto's restaurant, but Bessimo denied his guilt. He accused the two policemen who arrested him of being the cause of his battered countenance.

Bessimo says he had two friends with him who insisted that he take soup. He remonstrated and then the cops entered. A different story was told by Burgess Evans by eye witnesses. They said that Bessimo came into the restaurant and declared he could whip any American that ever lived. One of that race and faith took umbrage at the remarks and patted Bessimo one. When the Italian came to be resting peacefully beneath a table across the room, Officers O'Bryon and Stoner brought him to the bastille. He paid this morning.

Bessimo Cohen and Charles Levine could not stand the strain in Pittsburgh and are beating their way back, back, back to Baltimore. They said a horse couldn't do the work they contracted to do when the agent sent them to Pittsburgh. At the Smoky City end they were offered a job at latrobe, but preferred beating their way back home. Officer Thomas C. Phelan of the Baltimore & Ohio police force arrested them for trespassing and riding the trains. They were given 15 minutes to get another B. & O. freight.

Alice Miller of Brownsville was arrested for street walking, but she indignantly denied the allegation. Burgess Evans thought otherwise and fined her $10 with the 72 hour alternative. She is doing time.

The original prescription was issued by Dr. J. C. McClenathan 25 years ago and was filled at Huston's. Reference to the prescription files made it possible to refill the order today.

Woman's Influence In the Making Of the Country

A largely attended meeting of the Women's Culture Club was held yesterday afternoon in the club room of the Carnegie Free Library. The meeting opened with the regular business session presided over by Mrs. M. B. Burgess, the President. Business of a routine nature was transacted after which a very fine program on "Woman's Influence on the Making of America" was carried out. The papers were all good and showed the prominent part women have been taking in the making of America since the landing of the Pilgrims. The papers also showed that their influence was a necessary and without it America could not have been what it is today.

Mrs. J. M. Cecil read a very instructive paper on "Dolly Madison," followed by a well prepared paper on Harriet Beecher Stowe, by Mrs. E. B. Burgess. A well rendered vocal solo by Miss Ella Byers of Dunbar was the next number. "Training For Good Citizenship," was the subject of a very interesting paper read by Mrs. A. T. Pryde. Preceding the program Mrs. J. M. Toting, leader, gave a brief but interesting talk on the subject in general. The next meeting will be held Monday afternoon, January 31. The subject for discussion is "Woman in Scientific Research."

SOME ADVANCED 100 PER CENT

Increased Cost in Rente Has Kept Pace With Rise in Provisions and the Cost of Clothing—Detailed Schedule of 1895 and 1910.

The cost of living is a burning topic for discussion these days but until actual comparisons are made one hardly realizes how the cost of everything has soared. Talk about balloons! Well, the way some food-stuffs have increased in value would make Paulhan think he hadn't flown so high.

The Courier's market report printed in January, 1895, just 15 years ago, shows some interesting facts when compared with the prices that are quoted in the stores here at this time. In those 15 years prices have gone up in leaps and bounds.

Take, for a starter, the old reliable breakfast bacon. That is a breakfast food of the old school; no patent process about it. Fifteen years ago a quarter would buy two pounds of it. You pay that for one pound now. There are brooms, too. You can't eat brooms, of course, but there isn't a housewife who can get along without one. In years past a broom could be purchased from 18 to 35 cents. Now they range in price from 40 to 60 cents and in some stores the cheapest one handled is 65 cents.

Buckwheat flour is practically a local product; the one delicacy that Western Pennsylvania raises for home consumption. There hasn't been much of an increase, but there has been some. Instead of paying from 2 1/2 to 3 cents a pound, it is now 3 1/2 cents.

Butter? Worst of all. The January quotations 15 years ago were 13 to 33 cents a pound for the creamery variety. Today from 40 to 45 cents is the quotation. Up in New York State butter is quoted at 33 cents, but in the Pittsburgh district prices go up and stay there. The price of candles shows a slight increase, 15 to 18 cents a pound instead of 13 and 15. But in those days tallow candles were in vogue. Those you get now are a by-product of the Standard Oil Company. And the alleged infamous oil trust sells oil cheaper today than 15 years ago, by two cents a gallon.

Cheese costs more money these days. Instead of paying 12 1/2 to 22 cents a pound, it brings from 23 to 33 cents. Coffee hasn't changed a great deal, or at least, if it has, only the individual consumer can say, for there are so many different brands of coffee. Tea is in the same class.

Dried beef is getting to be a luxury. It used to sell for 16 cents a pound, but now runs from 25 to 30. And eggs? They show almost a 50 per cent increase. Instead of paying 25 cents a dozen for eggs, as Connellville people did 15 years ago, hen fruit runs from 40 to 45 cents and then it is of dubious ancestry. Chickens, dressed, have gone up 100 per cent. Maple syrup has gone up 10 cents a gallon; rice has gone up 5 cents on the pound, a 100 per cent rise; sugar costs a cent more a cake, while soap has advanced a cent.

Besides these increases that are shown, meat has become so expensive that it is fast being regarded as a luxury. Time was when a meal was not complete without meat, but if the present rate of increase continues, in another 15 years meat will be in the desert class.

Since 1895 canned goods have become more popular, too, and these cost considerably less. Fewer tomatoes are canned by housewives in the summer, because they can be bought "just as good" at the grocery store. Everything else worth while can be bought canned, from corn to cream.

When the increased rents are added to the increased store bill, and other expenses are added, it will easily be seen.

JUDICIAL DECISION

Will Be Obtained in Rights of Breweries in Los Question.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 15.—Steps toward securing a judicial determination of the rights of brewing companies to engage in the manufacture and sale of ice, were taken yesterday when court warrants proceedings were instituted in the Dauphin county court against the Pittsburgh Brewing Company and the Independent Brewing Company of Pittsburgh; Star Brew Company, of Greensburg; and Victor Brewing Company of Jeannette. The actions were filed by Deputy Attorney General J. B. Cunningham.

The proceedings were brought against the two former companies as the result of complaints filed early last year, and in the two latter because of the actions started by Anna E. Kerr, of Pittsburgh, and heard recently.

ATTACK ON CHARTERS.

Citizens Would Out Westmoreland County Water Companies.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 18.—(Special.) Alleging that they are not fulfilling their charter obligations by supplying the people of their districts with an adequate amount of water, applications for two warrants proceeding against the Westmoreland Water Company of Greensburg and the Westmoreland Water Company of Unity township, Westmoreland county, were filed with the Attorney General yesterday. The applications are signed by residents of Greensburg and vicinity. They ask for the forfeiture of the charters of the offending companies.

Deputy Attorney General Cunningham fixed February 2 for the hearing.

Tax Notice.

I have been notified by the various boards, that all taxes must be collected and the various duplicates settled up. You know what that means—just simply this: Your taxes must be paid, and that soon. Times are much better than they have been for some time and there is very little excuse for allowing your taxes to go unpaid. I am endeavoring to send every one the amount of their taxes, if you have not received your notice call at my office. Please attend to this matter at once or costs will have to be added. Office hours 8:30 A. M. to 12 M. 1 P. M. to 5:30 P. M. Very respectfully, Geo. H. Brown, Tax Collector. 14Jan10

KANSAS CITY LAWYER PROBING DEATH OF AGED MILLIONAIRE.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 18.—If the suspicions concerning the death of Thomas H. Swopes, millionaire, and his nephew, Thomas H. Swopes, are well founded, they were the victims of a poison plot. The man who compassed the deaths, if they resulted from design, called on science to aid him, since evidence has been produced to show that he administered to his victims the germs of typhoid fever as well as poison. Thomas H. Swopes died in October, and his nephew passed away suddenly last month. Others of the Swopes heirs fell ill, but recovered. It is alleged that one of the heirs to the Swopes fortune plotted the death of the others in order to become the sole beneficiary of the aged millionaire's will. The investigation into the deaths is engaging the attention of the attorneys for the Swopes estate, among them John H. Atwood, one of the West's most prominent lawyers and Democratic politicians.

NATURE SPARES

The Stricken Rose From Grief.

What a fortunate provision of nature it is, that deprives the rose of mental suffering; for how poignant would be its grief to discover, in the height of its blooming glory, that a canker had at its heart, and that its beauty and fragrance were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable storehouse of glowing rewards, for those who seek her aid. In the years gone by falling hair and grayness have cast a gloom over the lives of thousands of young women, but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause of hair destruction is now known to be a germ or parasite that borrows into the hair follicles. Newborn's Hairicide absolutely destroys this germ, thus permitting the hair to grow as nature intended. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Hairicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

One dollar bottles guaranteed; Graham & Co., Special Agents.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by Local Applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by local treatment. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When the tube is inflamed, it cannot perform its function of carrying sound waves from the eardrum to the brain, and deafness results. Deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out of the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be lost. Deafness is a curable disease, and is caused by Catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness caused by Catarrh that cannot be cured by local treatment. Send for circulars free. J. C. CHERRY, 100, Toledo, O., and by Druggists.

SKIN DISEASES READILY CURED BY A SIMPLE HOME TREATMENT. Persons who are suffering from skin diseases, pimples, dandruff, eczema, itching, or any form of skin disease, often ask the question, "Is there a cure?" Graham & Co., Connelville, and D. C. Eason, Uniontown, have a cure. ZEMO, a scientific, clean, liquid preparation for external use, gives prompt relief and permanently cures every form of skin and scalp disease. ZEMO draws the germ life and poisons from underneath the skin to the surface and destroys them and in this way affects a complete cure of any form of skin or scalp disease, whether on infants or grown persons. Graham & Co., or D. C. Eason will show you proof of many remarkable cures made by ZEMO and will gladly explain to you how you can be cured by this clean, simple home treatment.

MEYERSDALE.

MEYERSDALE, Jan. 17.—Cyrus Just, a well known citizen of this place, who spent the past month visiting his brother at Akron, Ohio, returned home yesterday. He speaks in terms of highest praise of the "Buckeye" city, and was well pleased with his visit to that place.

Mrs. William Imhoff, who had been visiting relatives and friends at this place during the past two weeks, returned this evening to her home at Mt. Pleasant, accompanied by Miss Ivy Penrod, who will spend a week or ten days here.

Attorney Charles F. Uhl, Jr., of Somerset was transacting legal business at this place last Saturday.

Jerry and Norman B. Kohn, two well known tillers of the soil of famous old Elk Lake, were calling upon their hosts of friends at this place yesterday.

Sheriff Charles L. Welner of Somerset was a business visitor to this place and Salisbury last Saturday.

William H. Deaton, vice president of the Knoll & Deeter Lumber Company, whose mills are located at Anthony, Va., is spending a few days with his family on Broadway street.

Alfred Wilmoth, who is superintending his father's lumber interests at Boyer, W. Va., and who spent the past two weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Wilmoth at "Hill Crest," recently returned to his duties on No. 14 this evening.

S. L. Peck, who conducts the Main street Billiard Parlor, returned last evening from a business visit to his former home at Bedford.

Mrs. George Kuhns, after spending the past week with relatives and friends in town and vicinity, returned to her home in Fredens this morning.

S. S. Piekard, proprietor of the Bentz Hotel at Rockwood, was in town this afternoon shaking hands with his hosts of friends and acquaintances.

The fire at Garrett this morning caused quite a commotion here. The fire department was telegraphed for and the equipment was sent via the B. & O. railroad from West Meyersdale shortly after the message was received. The "boys" from here did yeoman service in checking the conflagration and it is said on good authority that only for the assistance rendered by the local firemen considerably greater damage would have resulted. Many spectators went from here to the scene of the fire, the trolley, the steam cars and sleighs and sleds being the means of transportation. One of the three buildings was the large Fairview Hotel, owned by Wm. F. Meyers, a farmer who resides just a short distance west of this place. The loss on real estate is estimated at $5,000 and on personal property at $2,000.

THE WEATHER MAN WORKS OVERTIME.

Slippery From Rain About Scottdale.

BRAIN TESTERS BEING USED

Graduates of High School Pupils Are Searched For Knowledge—Man Di-locates Shoulder, Boy Breaks Arm.
Other Notes.

SCOTSDALE, Jan. 18.—The Weather man worked overtime yesterday and today, for this ever popular drama, Vaudeville and moving pictures will be resumed by the house tomorrow evening.

Boy Broke His Arm.
Gomer, son of Alexander Brooks of East Scottsdale, while out enjoying a bit of coasting on Sunday afternoon, had a collision with his sled, which resulted in a broken arm.

Dislocated His Shoulder.
James Raynor of Hunter fell on the ice on Broadway yesterday and was brought to the Borough building. He complained so much of his right shoulder that Dr. J. P. Weddell was called and an examination showed the right shoulder was dislocated. The physician pulled the shoulder into place and the man's injury will now likely amount to little. He had fallen on Pittsburgh street in the afternoon, but had not hurt himself at that time.

Visiting in Cumberland.
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Myers and son, Roger, are visiting Mrs. Myers' sister, Mrs. Gustave Kurland of North Centre street, Cumberland, Md. He is a member of the Cumberland Agricultural Society in Greensburg.

Another Postal Card Shower.
Mrs. Frank G. Hixon of west of town was tendered a postal card shower by her friends and relatives on Monday, the occasion being Mrs. Hixon's anniversary, and a large number of beautiful cards were sent her.

Small Tack Causes Death.
Chicago, Jan. 18.—Charles Edward Valentine Stender, a prominent architect, died at the Hahnemann hospital of blood poisoning. Several weeks ago Stender placed his hand on a tack which was lying on the library table at his home. Nothing was thought of the injury until a few days ago, when blood poisoning developed.

Brain Testers Applied.
The first winter examinations are now under a full head of steam in the High school, having been begun yesterday, and the pupils are having their brain cells thoroughly exercised to discover the amount and quality of the knowledge that the pupils have absorbed during the first half of the term, and which when weighed will determine whether or not the pupils' brains will be hardy enough to go ahead and try new mountain of knowledge in the balance of the year. The examination question this year were printed and handed the pupils, a procedure that makes it much more interesting.

Celebrating Here Tonight.
The play given by a highly recommended company, is the attraction at the Geyer opera house tonight, and there is fine advance sale been going on at T. H. Rutherford's yesterday and today, for this ever popular drama, Vaudeville and moving pictures will be resumed by the house tomorrow evening.

SUIT OVER ESTATE

In Somerset Courts What is Attracting Much Interest.
Special to The Courier.

SOMERSET, Jan. 18.—About two weeks ago Mrs. Caroline E. Keller of Somerset filed a bill in equity against Joseph B. Scull of Somerset, the attorney for her deceased husband's estate under the will, alleging that Mr. Scull was guilty of improper conduct in his management of the estate. The bill in equity avers that the plaintiff, Mrs. Keller, signed a power of attornizing Mr. Scull to collect the debts, realize on the securities and real estate of the deceased by sale, and perform other legal acts in order to dispose of the estate and settle it as speedily as possible. It is intimated in the bill that misrepresentation was used in order to obtain the power of attorney. Mrs. Keller also alleges that Mr. Scull refused to deliver certain papers, notes, bonds and mortgages, and also certain jewelry, part of the estate, to the plaintiff, Mrs. Keller, on her demand, and that he also refused to honor two checks for small amounts drawn by Mrs. Keller.

Mr. Scull filed his answer on Friday. He states that he was appointed as attorney for the estate by the will of Joseph Keller, the deceased husband of the plaintiff in the present action, and denies that there was any improper methods used in obtaining Mrs. Keller's signature to the power of attorney, and states that the purpose of this instrument was simply to facilitate the settling up of the estate, Mrs. Keller being in a Pittsburgh hospital at the time.

The plaintiff in the bill alleged that all her jewelry had been taken by Mr. Scull, who avers in his answer that a small amount of jewelry of slight value was in a tin box containing papers of the deceased which he took in order to use them in closing the estate.

Mr. Scull is president of the First National Bank, the Somerset Trust Company and other financial institutions, and this bill in equity against him excited considerable curiosity. Joseph Keller, the husband of the plaintiff, died on January 5, 1910, leaving an estate of about $12,000. It was believed that he had made a will but the document could not be found, and letters of administration were taken out by Mrs. Keller and Mr. Scull. Subsequently the will was discovered among the papers of the late Judge William J. Baer, and the letters were revoked and the will probated.

Since the instituting of the equity suit by Mrs. Keller, a number of her heirs filed in the Court of Common Pleas a petition for the appointment of a guardian to attend to her business matters, alleging that Mrs. Keller's mind was defective.

MISCONDUCT OF JURY ALLEGED

Motion For New Trial Follows Supreme Court's Refusal to Grant Writ of Certiorari—Chicago Financial Not at All Flurried.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—A motion for a new trial for John R. Walsh, convicted of wrecking the Chicago National bank and obtaining a writ of certiorari by the United States supreme court, is being heard by the United States circuit court of appeals today. The ground on which it was asked is the alleged misconduct of members of the jury.

The news of the action of the supreme court was received by Mr. Walsh at his office by telephone over a leased wire from Washington. The message was taken by his son. "Um, yes, that is two bad, too bad," noted Mr. Walsh, "but then we must make the best of it, I guess. We shall see what we shall see." He turned back to his desk and proceeded to dictate a letter to a firm of architects and so far as his demeanor showed the incident was entirely closed.

Almost at the moment the decision was received in Chicago the final details of Walsh's financial settlement with the committee of bankers and attorneys representing the interests involved in his note of $7,000,000 were arranged. Walsh finally affixed his signature to the release of the $14,000,000 securities that represent control of his railway and quarry properties and the heirs of John M. Smith, who had been holding out, signed the papers by which they will have to pay $120,000 of the $400,000 due from the six guarantors.

FALL RESTORES MAN'S MIND

Mental Faculties Return After Slip of Fifteen Months.

Delaware, O., Jan. 18.—Harley W. Simpson, former deputy auditor of Delaware county, is now awake from a sleep of over fifteen months. Simpson, on Oct. 2, 1908, was thrown from a buggy in a runaway, striking on his head. It was feared he had been fatally injured.

Simpson recovered physically, but his mental faculties never returned until he recently fell on a patch of ice, hurting his head. He was unconscious for several days and his recovery seemed doubtful. It is believed the last fall restored his mind. On reviving Simpson for the first time since the accident presented his wife. He began telling her of the incidents of the runaway, then started to talk of the result of the county local option election, which was held the day before he was injured. He remembers no incident of the last fifteen months.

COUNTRY TIED UP BY BIG BLIZZARD. BLOCKING STEAM AND ELECTRIC LINES.

The big blizzard which started in the northwest and swept to a northerly direction toward New York and New England affected a large section of the country, tying up traffic in many localities and bringing widespread suffering, especially to the poor of the larger cities. Many places were snowbound for days, causing local scarcities of coal and fuel. The blizzard, one of the heaviest of recent years, passed out to sea on the northern coast of the United States. In many places the heavy downfall of snow was added to the remaining snow of the Christmas blizzard, and its removal entailed great activity and long hours of work on the authorities. In New York and elsewhere thousands of men were pressed into service in the effort to remove from the streets the burden which impeded traffic and caused numerous accidents to pedestrians and teams. Outside of the cities

MINERS READY.

Re-Election of President Lewis Is Generally Conceded.

Indianapolis, Jan. 18.—The 1,800 miners who will make up the convention of the United Mineworkers of America are all here and with the coming of full delegations the demand for higher wages and better mining conditions has been greatly emphasized.

It is generally conceded that T. L. Lewis has defeated William Green of Charleston, O., for the position of national president of the organization. Edwin Perry, for national secretary treasurer, had no opposition. The struggle for the "open shop" in Canada will receive attention. E. S. McCulloch says that it is important not only to the United Mineworkers, but also to the international labor unions of the United States that are represented in Canada. "Canada for the Canadians," he says, is the cry that is being raised there, and he expressed the belief that if the United Mineworkers were not successful in their fight in Nova Scotia other international unions would be attracted there in an effort to drive them out.

PINCHOT'S OVATION.

His Talks Conservation at the Civic Federation's Conference.

Washington, Jan. 18.—The feature of the proceedings of the National Civic federation's conference on uniform laws was the ovation accorded to Gifford Pinchot, who was recently removed by President Taft as government forester for insubordination growing out of the so-called Hallinger-Pinchot controversy.

When introduced by Judge Parker Mr. Pinchot was vigorously applauded and those delegates sitting about the stales arose and warmly shook his hands. When he ascended the platform the delegates left their seats and crowded around him, shaking his hand and cheering him. It was some little time before order was restored and before Mr. Pinchot was able to proceed.

Mr. Pinchot spoke on conservation. He stated that it was the "plain duty of all the friends of conservation to sink their differences."

Governor Hughes Reasserts Intention to Retire When Term Expires.

Washington, Jan. 18.—Governor Hughes of New York, here to attend the conference of governors of the states, when asked if it is true that he intends to retire to private life at the expiration of his present term said: "That statement is absolutely correct. I shall resume the practice of law when I leave the executive office."

"What about the Republican nomination for the presidency in 1912?" "I can only say in reply to that question that I intend to resume the practice of law when I retire as governor."

WILL OF D. O. MILLS.

Millionaire Bequeathed $500,000 to Public Institutions.

New York, Jan. 18.—The will of Darlow Oden Mills, filed for probate, is a brief document containing less than 500 words. It leaves $500,000 to public institutions and gives the balance of the estate to his two children, Oden Mills and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid. The public bequests are as follows: Metropolitan museum of art, $100,000; American museum of natural history, $100,000; home for incurables in the city of New York, $100,000; botanical gardens in the Bronx, $50,000; American Geographical society, $25,000; and the American Red Cross, $25,000. The estate is said to be worth in the neighborhood of $500,000.

After the will had been filed the lawyers gave out a statement to the effect that it was the wish of Mills that St. Luke's hospital of San Francisco have a gift of $100,000 from him and that on the settlement of the estate the executor would pay over that amount.

Harriman has acquired a stock majority of the Night and Day bank and will interest herself in the conduct of affairs, becoming, so far as is known, the first woman in this city personally to own a financial institution. E. H. Harriman always held a substantial interest in the Night and Day bank, but it never amounted to control.

CANNON IS FAST LOSING GROUND.

Desertions From the Speaker's Standard Are Numerous.

MORE OPPOSITION DEVELOPS

Michigan Delegation Is Divided In Support of Speaker Cannon—Pennsylvania Congressmen Are Growing and Mr. Olmsted Is Mentioned.

Washington, Jan. 18.—Developments in the house of representatives have revealed much more opposition to Speaker Cannon than was generally supposed.

A poll of the Michigan delegation revealed that Representatives Townsend, McLaughlin and Hamilton are decidedly anti-Cannon; that Representative Loud hopes to be pushed; that Representative Dikma has announced himself as a candidate for the job; and that Representatives Fordney and McMoran think that the present speaker is all right. Representatives Smith, Gardner, Dadds and Young are still on the fence.

Pennsylvania Men Growing.

It also became known that the Pennsylvania delegation is thinking of supporting a man to succeed Mr. Cannon in the chair. Representative Dabell has been mentioned, but he is not likely to be in the race if there is a race. On the other hand, it is thought that if any eastern man has a look in Representative Olmsted, who knows a good deal about parliamentary law and practice, would be as strong or stronger than anybody else. Some members of the Pennsylvania delegation are growing because, in their opinion, Uncle Joe has not treated them fairly or treated the Atlantic seaboard fairly with respect to membership on the rivers and harbors committee and the waterways commission. There will be no announcement from this delegation now, but it was understood that if it becomes apparent that Mr. Cannon is bound to go down and out as far as the speaker's chair is concerned Olmsted will be pushed to the front.

The Minnesota delegation, while having made no announcement for publication, was understood to have an anti-Cannon majority.

Hitchcock Makes Specific Charges. Specific charges of extravagance and favoritism in the land office and misuse of appropriations were made by Representative Hitchcock of Nebraska before the house committee on expenditures in the interior department. Chairman McGuire announced that the charges made by Mr. Hitchcock were specific enough to warrant investigation of the expenditures in the department and said that the investigation would be begun at once.

Knappen Succeeds Lorton. President Taft has sent to the senate the nominations of Judge Royce Knappen to be judge of the Sixth judicial circuit, as successor to Judge Lacey E. Lorton, appointed a member of the supreme court of the United States, and Arthur C. Denison of Grand Rapids as judge of the western district of Michigan. Both nominations will be confirmed.

CHORUS

By JAMES FORBES

Copyright, 1906, by G. W. Dillingham Company

"I don't think I would like it," he avowed, his eyes lighting up with a smile again.

"There—you see!" she exclaimed triumphantly. "Fancy of no fancy, I'm going to New York."

Crawford was of that kind very common in great cities who affect to believe that all is fair in love, as they conceive it. To do him justice, however, he had not thought of his little companion save in an entirely disinterested way. He had considered her as a beautiful child, as a "wild rose," but the idea that the rose might be plucked had not even entered his mind, and when he had told her that he agreed with her sister that home was the best place for her he had really meant it. But the turn the conversation had taken had quickened his imagination, directed his ideas into another channel and opened his eyes to possibilities. Here was a girl who was unusually pretty, whose charms were enhanced by an innocence that was childlike as it was captivating, not to be found in any girl, however good, who had been brought into contact with the experience of the city's boisterous workshop.

"You might not like it," he said, rising to help her fold the tablecloth.

"Not like New York?" she ejaculated, astonished at the notion. "The idea! Why, even Patsy, who loves the country, says New York's the one best bet."

"It's a pretty good little town," he agreed, folding her hands in the cloth and trying straight into her eyes. "Yet I haven't enjoyed myself so much in a long while as I have this morning."

"The girl averted her gaze and blushed and relaxed his grasp."

"Did you see all the horses?" she asked, not comprehending the meaning he had conveyed to put into the words. "Which one did you like most?"

"There are a fine string, but I think Lady Belle hit my eye. I love her!" she exclaimed enthusiastically. "But," she added, suddenly recollecting her trouble over the mare and becoming resentful, "she doesn't get any sugar from me this morning."

"Not why not?"

"Because she lost me $5 to the shrimp."

"The shrimp?"

"Yes, he's one of the stable boys."

"Oh! So you bet, then?"

"I love to, but I shouldn't have told you that."

"Why not?"

"It might hurt father in your eye."

"How so?"

"He thinks it dishonorable for any of us, he being a trainer, to put money on a horse. I don't know what he'd do if he found I'd disobeyed him again."

"I won't tell him," he laughed.

"But the shrimp will if I don't pay him. I don't know what I'm going to do," she said, helpfully.

"Let me 'bad it to you," he murmured.

Nora turned away in great embarrassment.

"Oh, Mr. Crawford, I wasn't blushing! I couldn't think of taking money from you. What would father say if he found it out?"

"He wouldn't know. Why should he?" she insisted.

"But you're a stranger," she objected. "A stranger?" Don't say that. Why, I feel as though I had known you all my life. Besides, as I am to be Mr. Crawford's partner, I am going to be a friend of the family, you know."

The girl reflected.

"Yes, of course, I suppose so. You're not quite a stranger," she said doubtfully. "You're sure it would be all right for a girl to borrow money from a gentleman?"

"Most certainly," he assured her. Nora still hesitated, but she wanted to take the money.

"Of course I could pay you back—some time," she faltered.

"That's all right," he said gently. "There's no hurry about it. I shouldn't need it for ever so long."

And, going to his overcoat on the door, he drew from the inside pocket a roll of bills.

As he did so Mrs. O'Brien came down stairs.

Crawford thrust the money back into his pocket and pretended to be taking down his coat.

"Nora," said her mother, "I want you to come upstairs at once!"

She broke off to see Crawford, putting on his coat.

"Sure, oh, no, no, no! I'd drive you away, no!" she said. "It's proud Old to introduce you to Patsy."

"Thank you," he responded cordially. "I shall be delighted. I'll be back in a little while."

Nora, following her mother upstairs, turned to look at him, and he cast a swift, meaning glance at her as he went out.

CHAPTER IV

"I CHETIE think I was the big screw to the fan," out it looks like I am the false alarm!" Patricia O'Brien gazed around the door of the kitchen with indignation and disappointment in the delivered herself of this sentiment and a double "I" suit case and an umbrella on the floor.

"Wouldn't this hurt you, though?"

The LADY

Novelized From Forbes' Play of the Same Name by JOHN W. HARDING

Rose Stahl, Creator of the Title Role of "The Chorus Lady."

she muttered, "no havin' to beat it all the way from the drops an' then not a soul to offer me the welcome milt?"

She went to the foot of the stairs and lifted up her voice in a strident "Ooo-ho-ooo-ho!" Then she returned and seated herself wearily on a chair.

Little excited cries in the regions above and a sound of hurrying feet followed this call.

"Tis Patsy! Tis Patsy! Hurry, Nora!" shrieked Mrs. O'Brien.

"Me darlin', me Patsy, 'tis glad I am to see you, ye're lookin' beautiful, child!" cried the old woman, hugging her to her and receiving in return a hug as strenuous in its expression of love as the sound of hungry affection that it made her rasp.

The first effusions of the joy of meeting again having subsided, Patsy once more became aggrieved.

"None one might 'a' met me," she complained, with tears in her voice. "It ain't no joke but footin' it all this way with a heavy grip. Where's pop?"

"Phwat! Wasn't there any one at the train? Didn't you see Danny?" queried her mother, much surprised.

"Don't speak his name!" requested the girl as she diverted herself of her short tan jacket and revealed her tall, slender figure clad in a white blouse, skirt waist and black tulle skirt, beneath which as she raised it slightly the flounce of a green petticoat was visible.

"Didn't you get my wire sayin' I'd be here on the 7:30?"

"Yes, but it wasn't delivered here until half past 7," said Nora as she took her sister's hat, a fearful and wonderful creation in black chiffon.

"An' Danny rushed right away with the rig for the train," added her mother.

"Half past 7! Wouldn't that send you? I'm sorry I was so grouchy, but I'm so temperamental!"

Patricia explained the last word with a very superior air as she adjusted her pompadour before the mirror and smoothed out her crumpled skirt waist with her fingers. Her notion as to what it meant was extremely hazy, but she had heard it in a play, and it sounded well.

Her mother was much impressed by it.

"In that so?" she said sympathetically.

"'Poor dear! But O! don't wonder at me feelin' upset. Sure 'twas a cold welcome yer had from yer loved ones!"

"I had it all framed up," Patsy went on, "no doin' it from the caboose an' fallin' on everybody's neck. An' when I got off the train the only neck in sight belongs to that village cutup that propels the hack. The worst of it was I'd been handin' it out all season to that bunch of frails in the company about my flounce that owns a riel's stable and had told 'em I'd wired him to meet me. An' when that rabbit faced buckskin comes up an' hands out his milt to me—Well, never to me d'ye say will I forget the way that butler crowd hands me the merry ha, ha!"

"But it's good to be home again," sighed Patsy contentedly, dismissing from her thoughts the contretemps that could not be placed to anybody's fault and giving her mother another affectionate hug. "An' how is things? How's Danny gettin' on?"

"He ain't gettin' along as well as he ought," answered the old woman uneasily. "I've and a hard time as I ever since he left, though Lor' knows he's worried hard enough, an' he's had to give a partner."

"A partner?"

"You We didn't write to bother you about it. It wouldn't 'a' helped matters an' would 'a' not ye worryin', an' ye sure have enough to put up with."

"You oughter 'a' let me know about it, all the same. Who is this partner, I mean?"

"A Miler Crawford from New York. He came here this very mornin' to look the place over. Y'r father says it's little Danny 'll get out at the stable now except his board an' keep."

"Ain't that punk luck?" commented Patsy. "Well, an' how's pop? I didn't have much money, an' I came away too quick to try anything for you, but I brought home some o' I got at the depot at Washington."

Before her mother could reply O'Brien himself came in, his face glowing with a welcome. Patsy of tender joy moistened his eyes as he took the returned wanderer in his arms.

"Ah Patsy, but we've missed you, me girl," he said. "It makes life worth livin' to see you out in a whole Phwat happened to ye show that ye were able to come to us?"

"The angel, the financial party as was back of the 'Moonlight Maids,' got chubbins," she explained.

"Poor creature! Where did he catch them?" asked her mother, with much interest.

"In the box office," replied Patsy, with a laugh, in which all joined, including her mother, who began to understand.

"Wasn't the play comical?" asked the latter.

"I never noticed any one laugh himself to death," said Patsy, shrugging her shoulders. "The comedians was a couple of morgues. The best joke in the show was the star—one of their handmaiden blondes. She was in the original 'Black Creek' company, an' she had a daughter at school then. Then there was a couple of song an' dance men, a team of acrobats, a troupe of moose eaten dogs an' a chorus that looked like the 'Hamburghs' ulon."

"And wasn't even the scenery nice?" questioned Nora.

"Yep," she admitted, "the scenery was nice, and I made a great personal success. I had three lines in the after-piece."

"Well, never mind, child. The 'Moonlight Maids' brought us luck in bringin' ye here," said O'Brien. "An' now ye're here, we're goin' to keep 'ye awhile."

"I'd like to stay awful bad, but I'm afraid I can't, pop, dear," she said. "I've got to go back to New York to-morrow."

"But ye can't 'ave us so soon," protested her mother.

"Morn," she replied, with an air of businesslike importance, "you don't understand. I simply can't keep me like Henry W. Savage and Klaw & Erlanger waitin' to know what I'm goin' to do."

"Will you have a part in a play?" queried Nora.

"That depends on the part. Like as not I'll just go back in the chorus. What's the use of bein' ambitious? It only makes you uncomfortable in your mind. I've thought some of goin' into vaudeville. I've a friend that's close to B. F. Keith's stenographer, an' he thought he could book me some dates. Maybe he'll frame up a sister act."

"A sister act! Oh, Patsy, you're going to take me?" cried Nora eagerly.

"Why, honey lamb," said Patsy, with loving, motherly depreciation, "you can't do a turn in vaudeville. The stage is no place for you."

Nora flushed and glared at her sister with jealous fury.

And, bursting into a fit of angry weeping, she bounced out of the room.

Patsy, amazed and pained and anxious to soothe her sister, followed her to the foot of the stairs.

"Why, Nora—honey lamb!" she cried. "Come here, child, I—"

"Honey lamb nothin'!" screamed the enraged girl as she slammed the door of her room. "I'll go in the chorus just to spite you!"

Patsy, perturbed and distressed, turned back.

"Morn, you haven't been encouragin' her. Pop, you won't let her go!" she questioned.

"Phwat d'ye mean, child?" demanded her mother.

"I mean," answered Patsy emphatically, "I don't want my little sister in the chorus."

"If it ain't fit for Nora it ain't fit for you, and it's here you'll stay," declared O'Brien very quietly and very firmly.

"Me? Oh, I'm different," said the girl. "I'm wise. I can tell the goods from the phoney every time."

"I'd just as lief she wouldn't learn."

"Ah, Patsy, no dretter," you're forgettin'. It's a lesson women must learn, somehow, somewhere, some day. Better you now some one else to stand by an' watch she ain't harmed."

Patsy sighed.

"True," she said slowly. "Maybe you're right, morn, after all."

"Whist!" exclaimed O'Brien. "Zoro's a rig comin'."

"Ye a hunch that's Dan. Stridoo, pop," cried Patsy, kissing him warmly and pushing him toward the door. "That goes for you, too, morn. I guess I don't need no chaperony."

"Pat! In O'Brien's love was of that kind which is a woman's whole existence. Germinating on that day five years before when, a stranger, Mallory had smiled into her eyes, it had grown into a passion that filled every waking hour of her life, a passion that absence had but purified and ennobled.

"Do you know you're takin'—my breath away?" she gasped between the kisses he planted avidly on her lips.

"Am I?" he said, and he kissed her again and again.

"After seventeen weeks touring imitation towns this is certainly peach preserves," she murmured.

"It's heaven! To me you're the one girl in the whole universe," he declared fervently.

"When I think of the men I see other women attacked up against—you win—any."

"I never saw anything that was in your class, Patsy. You look like a four time winner yourself."

"Honey, Dan?"

"You're prettier than ever."

PRISON LIFE OF C. W. MORSE.

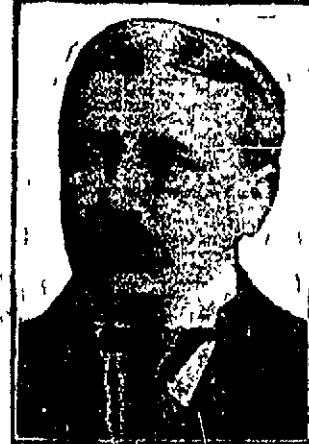

How Convicted Banker Will Fare in Atlanta Jail.

ENTITLED TO SOME PRIVILEGES

Placed in First Class Prisoners, But Must Undergo a Rigid Routine—Still Game and Determined to Fight on in Courts.

When the big steel door of the United States penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., recently swung shut behind Charles W. Morse of New York, but yesterday a man of millions, he had ceased to exist socially. The quondam ice king, banker and master of great fleets, who was intrusted with the care of many millions and convicted of being faithless to the trust, had begun his fifteen year sentence. He had become convict No. 2314, and after all the formalities had been concluded, clad in an ill fitting suit of rough blue clothes, he was marched into the big dining hall and with negroes, Indians, Chinamen and whites of every condition took his first meal under the roof that is to shut out his liberty for fifteen years.

No. 2314 hanceforth supplies Morse's name. He has been put in the first grade of prisoners, which entitles him to all the privileges that the best behaved may enjoy. As such he need not wear the stripes save when he is on the outside of the building, the warden, William H. Moyer, having discarded this mark in favor of the blue uniform.

Morse must abide by rules that govern the employment of every moment of his day. Speech is denied him except at stated hours, even at his meals.

Still to Fight for Freedom.

He is full of fight and said to a reporter shortly before the prison doors closed on him:

"My last words as a free man are to reiterate that I am an innocent man. I am a victim largely of circumstances and unscrupulous methods, but the battle is not yet over, although I have suffered a heavy defeat."

I shall protest against imprisonment on the ground that by commitment is illegal but this is more or less a formal protest. There are other steps to be taken, and on these I am raising high hopes. Martin Littleton, my counsel, will be here in a day or two, and then we shall discuss in detail the plan to be pursued."

I detect nothing, but in justice to myself I must say, what every man who is conversant with affairs in New York must know, that I was the victim of a clique who feared me. I incurred their enmity, and they set about to compass my destruction. How they did it is a matter of history. But I have suffered reverses before and have survived them. I shall, I hope, survive this too. But it is hard, hard to make myself think this way at any time of life. I am an old man now, and fifteen years out of my life—oh, I cannot believe that it will have to be!"

One of his companions recalled the lines from Oscar Wilde's beautiful "Enlaid of Rounding Goad" running:

"His step seemed light and gay, but I never saw a man who looked so wistfully at the day."

Takes Pleasure in Poem.

Morse mused for a moment.

"I can feel those things now," he said. "The 'come straight home,' while I was in the 'Tomb' a friend sent me the verses called 'Invictus,' by W. E. Henley. I wish I had brought them with me."

He was glad when he learned that one of the party recalled them and wrote them out for him. The lines of the poem "Invictus" are as follows:

Out of the night that covers me,
Black as the pit from pole to pole,
I thank whatever gods there be,
For my unconquerable soul.

In the full clutch of circumstance I have not winced or cried aloud.
Under the bludgeonings of fate
My head is bloody, but unbowed.

It matters not how bleak the gate,
How charged with punishment the scroll,
I am the master of my fate,
I am the captain of my soul.

He read the lines and as he put them in his pocket remarked that he hoped he would be permitted to keep them.

"Did I feel myself guilty my outlook would be black indeed," he said, "but I do not think my life a failure, at least not yet. No matter what they do to me, they can't kill my spirit. It is because of this sentiment that I love Henley's lines. Every man's voice, raised for me or against me, is of avail, and so I ask the aid of every man who may believe that a wrong has been done me. That is all I want to say. Goodby."

That was his valdictory.

MRS. MORSE, DEVOTED HELPMATE, WORKING HARD FOR CONVICT HUSBAND.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Probably the busiest woman in New York today is Mrs. Charles W. Morse, wife of the former banker, sentenced to serve 15 years in the Federal Penitentiary in Atlanta for infractions of the National Banking Laws. In addition to assuming the burden of her husband's still large business interests, Mrs. Morse is circulating petitions addressed to President Taft asking for the pardon of the ex-convict. Mr. Morse's counsel exhausted every resource known to skilled legal ingenuity before giving up as hopeless the fight to save him from prison, and nothing remained but an appeal to executive clemency. Mrs. Morse has taken up her task of looking after Mr. Morse's affairs in a small unpretentious office in the same building in which the financier engineered some of his shrewdest and most successful affairs. In her work she is ably assisted by Miss Katherine Wilson, formerly confidential secretary and stenographer to Mr. Morse.

Allowed Two Visitors a Month.

Morse is permitted two visitors each month, besides special calls of urgent nature, so long as he is in the first grade. He may receive letters and books and may write one letter every two weeks, but all of his communications are subject to the warden's scrutiny.

He can purchase out of the money he left with the warden, something like $200, a black tie and tooth paste and hairbrush and a looking glass, but he is not permitted to buy any additions to the menu. Here is the daily bill of fare:

Breakfast—Potatoes, bread, butter and coffee.

Dinner—Roast beef, sweet potatoes, bread and water.

Supper—Pie, bread, butter and tea.

A sample of the daily routine for convict No. 2314 is: 6:30 a. m., rising; 7:15 a. m., roll call; 7:30 a. m., sick report; 7:30 a. m., breakfast; 8 a. m., work; 11:45 a. m., recess; 12:15 p. m., dinner; 12:45 p. m., work; 4:15 p. m., recess; 4:35 p. m., supper; 6 p. m., musical hour; 7 to 8, quiet and reading, smoking permitted; 8 p. m., lights out, sleep.

At meals different motions of the hand indicate different wants. The hand up means water, extended to the right means something else, and then to the left it has another meaning.

It is likely Morse will be put to clerical work, as he is not strong enough to do outside work.

DELA CRANGE'S MISHAPS.

Frenchman Killed in Monoplane Flight Was Prominent Aviator.

Leon Delacrang, the Frenchman who was recently killed when his monoplane broke in mid-air at Bordeaux, France, was well known as an aviator, not only as having at various times held the record for speed and distance, but also for his daring. His career was marked by several serious accidents before the fatal one, but he continued his exploits, earning the reputation of a man who would run a good deal of risk rather than disappoint the spectators who had gathered to say his life.

Well known already as an automobile driver, Delacrang took up aviation in the early stages of the sport and made his first public ascent at Bagatelle, France, on March 10, 1907, in a monoplane. He was satisfied then with a flight of thirty feet, but a few days later he took a passenger up and accomplished 453 feet.

On Nov. 5, 1907, he met with his first accident at Issy, France. His machine fell and was smashed, but he escaped with a few bruises and cuts. It was also in the following May he had a narrow escape, as with Farman he was competing for the Armeed prize of $2000 for a flight of fifteen minutes.

He was traveling fast near the ground, and his machine swerved toward the crowd of spectators. He at once shut off power and in descending crashed into a motorcar. The machine was smashed to atoms, but Delacrang escaped almost unharmed.

Again he was hurt in the next spring in an exhibition flight at Milan before Queen Margherita of Italy, but so little was he unnerved that eleven days later he gave another exhibition before her majesty, remaining in the air for 16 minutes 11 seconds and covering a little over eleven miles. For this performance, a record at the time, he received a special gold medal.

At Issy, on Sept. 6, 1908, Delacrang made another record. He flew fifteen and two-fifth miles in 20 minutes and 54.45 seconds and came to the ground only because his petrol was exhausted. At that time this best Wright's and Farman's records by twelve minutes.

In May last year Delacrang, at Juvisy, won the Lagatner prize, making three and six-tenths miles in 10 minutes 18 seconds. At the Rheims competitions in August he used for the first time a monoplane, but achieved no great success, being placed tenth for speed and eighth for distance. On one occasion his propeller broke, and he was badly bruised. He then visited Denmark and flew for fifteen minutes for King Frederick at Aarhus.

His first sensational flight, however, was made on Oct. 20, 1909. At Doncaster, in England, he covered six miles in 7 minutes 30 seconds, at a rate at times of over fifty miles an hour. He also established a speed record of 1 mile and 800 yards in 1 minute 47.5 seconds—that is, about fifty-four miles an hour. His machine on this occasion was a Bleriot monoplane.

On Thursday, Dec. 30, 1909, he completed another world's speed record. At Juvisy he flew to win the Michelin cup by trying 124 miles in 2 hours 32 minutes, an average speed of forty-nine miles an hour.

Many honors were conferred on Delacrang for his achievements. Among them were the Order of the Legion of Honor, an enamel medal by the Academy of Sciences, Paris, and the presidency of the Aviation Club of France for 1907. His pastimes consisted in hunting, horseback riding and automobile driving.

His Response to a Speech of Eulogy at a Banquet.

William H. Eideing tells in McClure's Magazine of a dinner of the Papyrus club in Boston at which Henry M. Stanley, the explorer, was the guest of honor.

"Whether he (Stanley) sat or stood, he digested and answered in monosyllables—not because he was unamiable or unappreciative, but because he—this man of iron, God's instrument, whose word in the field brooked no contradiction or evasion, he who defied obstacles and danger and pierced the heart of darkness—was bashful even in the company of fellow craftsmen."

His embarrassment grew when after dinner the chairman eulogized him to the audience. He squirmed and averted his face as cheer after cheer confirmed the speaker's rhetorical ebullience of praise. "Gentlemen, I introduce to you Mr. Stanley, who," etc. The hero stood up slowly, painfully, reluctantly, and with a gesture of deprecation, fumbled in first one and then another of his pockets without finding what he sought.

"It was supposed that he was looking for his notes, and more applause took the edge off the deluge. His mouth twitched without speech for another awkward minute before, with a more erect bearing, he produced the object of his search and put it on his head. It was not paper, but a rag of a cap, and with that on he faced the company as one who by the act had done all that could be expected of him and made further acknowledgment of the honors he had received superfluous. It was a cap that Livingstone had worn and that Livingstone had given him."

UNIONISTS KEEP UP THEIR GAINS.

Capture Fourteen Additional Seats in House of Commons.

EX-PREMIER BALFOUR WINS

John Burns is Returned by Decreased Majority—Lord Balfour Has Easy Time Disposing of His Liberal Opponent.

London, Jan. 17.—A further net gain of fourteen Unionist seats in the house of commons is the result of the polling up to date in the general election. This does not include three electorates where the count is as yet uncompleted.

The returns show that the Liberals may secure a small working majority with the aid of their Labor and Socialist allies while disregarding the Nationalists.

The vote again shows the unfortunate position of the Unionists. The latter polled a total of 569,000 votes against 517,000 for the Liberals. Laborists, Nationalists and Socialists combined, and yet the Unionists won only forty-eight seats, while their opponents captured fifty-six.

Notwithstanding the contested cases the strength of the rival parties in the new parliament thus far is as follows: Liberals, 75; Laborists, 10; Nationalists, 17. This gives the government coalition a total of 102, as opposed to 57 for the Unionists. As one-third of the members are now chosen, a ministerial majority of fully 100 seems assured.

John Burns is Returned.
John Burns, in Battersea, dropped from a majority of 1,600 to 555. Arthur J. Balfour, the former premier, holds his London seat. His colleague, Sir Frederick Lambour, was also elected. The Liberals fought an uphill fight polling but 4,625 against a gross Unionist vote of 15,299.

The most notable Unionist gain was at Portsmouth, where Lord Charles Balfour and his colleague, Balfour, polled 18,777 votes, while the Liberals, who carried the district in 1906, polled only 10,700.

One rejected Laborist whose loss will not be regretted is Standish, defeated by Major Archer Shee, whose wife is a daughter of Alfred Russel Wallace. Standish had during the campaign the only recommendation that Major Archer Shee had was that he had "performed an American lady and you know the slanting dollar is very good."

"I have been on the continent at home," he added, "with these Americans and I can tell you that they are a low and vulgar lot. Because they have dollars they think they can rule the world with their wealth."

This speech caused much indignation and Standish was defeated by a majority of 694, whereas he carried the same district in 1906 by 372.

SUGAR MEN ARRAIGNED

Helke and Others Furnish Bail For Appearance in Court.

New York, Jan. 17.—Charles R. Helke, secretary of the American Sugar Refining company, Ernest W. Geisbrecht, vice president of the Havens & Co. Refining company in Williamsburg, James F. Bandermeier, cashier of the same, and Harry W. Walker, formerly assistant to Oliver Spitzer, and Jean M. Vonder and James F. Halligan, both formerly sugar chockers in the Williamsburg docks, all of whom were indicted last week for underselling frauds were arraigned before Judge Hugh in the United States circuit court.

John H. Blumhelf, Helke's counsel, and the lawyers for the other defendants told the court they had not had time to examine the indictment. Judge Hugh gave them a week and deferred the pleading until then. Helke's bail was fixed at $5,000 and Walker's bail at $1,000. The other defendants had been previously indicted their original bail was continued.

WHOPPER GRAIN CROP

Tepeka (Kan.) Lays Claim to Wheat King of the World.

Tepeka, Kan., Jan. 17.—Tepeka now lays claim to the wheat king of the world. His name is James N. Pike of Colby, former railroad commissioner. The crop of wheat from Mr. Pike's farm sold last year for $150,000.

It required 250 harvest hands a month to gather Pike's crop. Four threshing machines were kept busy for a month threshing the crop. It required 120 freight cars of 1,000 bushels capacity each to move his crop. After gathering this crop Mr. Pike went the season's record one better by sowing 12,000 more acres to wheat for the coming year's harvest.

Dragged by the Collar For Mile.
Philadelphia, Jan. 17.—Down Sixth street from Washington avenue to Jack on street more than a mile, a collar was dragged by the collar an imprisoned man who had tried to board it and whose feet had slipped when he found the man was dead, but a trail of blood in the snow showed how far he had been dragged, and the back of his clothing was worn to paper thinness.

FIRE TRAPS 20 FAMILIES

Three Women Probably Dead in Philadelphia Blaze.

Philadelphia, Jan. 17.—One woman is dead, two others are missing and three are seriously injured, one perhaps fatally, as the result of a fire which completely destroyed the Holsingworth apartments at 4313-4315 Walnut street, the fashionable section of West Philadelphia. One of the guests, a woman, died from the shock of being dragged from the burning building. The bodies of two other women are believed to be buried in the ruins. One fireman was critically injured by falling from the roof of an adjoining building.

The flames, which are supposed to have been caused by a defective flue, started in the basement in the rear of the building, a five-story structure occupied by fifteen families. About twenty persons, mostly women, were in their rooms when the fire was first discovered. So rapid was the progress of the flames that when the alarm was sounded the elevator shaft and staircases which surrounded it were ablaze. The frightened women were obliged to make their way down a fire escape in the rear of the building. Several of those who were in the front rooms had their escape cut off.

MEAT TRUST IS BLAMED

Retailers Say They Are at Mercy of Big Combine.

Pittsburg, Jan. 18.—Retail butchers and meat dealers in western Pennsylvania have decided to object to the meat trust placing the blame for high prices on the retailers. It is declared by those willing to householders in this section that the meat trust is responsible for the high prices of meat and they are prepared to prove to the public that the trust alone is to be blamed for boosting figures.

ANTI-MEAT EATING CRUSADE

Thousands of Clevelanders Sign Pledge to Abstain From It.

Cleveland, Jan. 18.—Cleveland's anti-meat strike as a blow at the increased cost of living is in full swing. Fully 6,000 men have signed a pledge to abstain from meat for a month. A similar movement has been started in Springfield, O., with several hundred followers.

The movement started last Saturday when the foramen of three factories took up the idea. In twenty-four hours where petitions have been circulated there are signers representing a population of 30,000. A dealer in live stock in authority for the statement that if meat eating were stopped for one week prices would drop to the right level. It is predicted that by the end of the week upward of 20,000 families will be enlisted in the movement against high-priced food.

LICKED TO JACKASSES

Georgia Legislators So Called by Leading Member of Body.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 18.—Dr. George Brown, the leading member of the Georgia legislature, in a public address likened his colleagues to a lot of "jackasses." Dr. Brown was addressing the tuberculosis convention on the possibility of securing state aid for the prevention of white plague. He said:

"I have the misfortune to be a member of the Georgia legislature and I have the profoundest contempt for that body. They won't help you. If you had a drove of Kentucky jackasses in the capitol and offered a prize for the one that, being prodded, could kick the longest, you would have a fair idea of the mental attitude of the legislature of Georgia. They will do nothing."

EIGHTY MORE GRAFT SUITS

Pittsburg District Attorney Said to Be Engineering Wholesale Arrests.

Pittsburg, Jan. 18.—A rumor is abroad that District Attorney William A. Blakeley is about to spring another sensation in the graft crusade by engineering eighty more arrests. This story was circulated at city hall and at the courthouse. It was stated that informations will be made soon against many former councilmen who have not been mentioned in connection with the depository ordinance scandal.

District Attorney Blakeley refused to confirm or deny the story. He said he was not contemplating additional arrests just now.

JOHN D. TAKING NO CHANCES

Seven of His Pocantico Hills Employees Appointed Deputy Sheriffs.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., Jan. 18.—On the request of John D. Rockefeller, Sheriff Scherp of White Plains has appointed seven men on his large country estate at Pocantico Hills to be deputy sheriffs.

The old king, it is said, since his life has been threatened some time ago has been almost constantly surrounded by a guard, and the action of the sheriff gives his employees the authority to carry arms and make arrests. Their jurisdiction, however, is to be confined to the Rockefeller premises.

REV. AXTELL A SUICIDE

Young Presbyterian Clergyman Shoots Himself Through Heart.

Pittsburg, Jan. 18.—Rev. Paul Axtell, aged twenty-eight years, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Sewickley, shot himself in the heart in a barn, at the home of his father, Rev. J. S. Axtell, pastor of the Lebanon Presbyterian church, at Lebanon, four miles from Homestead.

The body of the young clergyman was found by his brother Eugene lying in the barn with a revolver in his hand. He had been dead some hours when his body was found. Ill health is given as a motive for the suicide.

HURT IN TAXI ACCIDENT

President Monsarrat of Hocking Valley Railroad Taken to Hospital.

New York, Jan. 18.—Nicholas Monsarrat, president of the Hocking Valley railroad and a director in the American Surety company, was taken to Flower hospital last night suffering from painful lacerations about the face sustained when a taxicab in which he was riding ran into an elevated pillar.

The driver of the taxicab, Sidney Collins, was arrested and charged with reckless driving. He says the accident was due to the car skidding on the slippery pavements. Mr. Monsarrat's home is in Columbus, O.

TROOPS IN SEDITION

Disaffection Among East Indian Regiment Causes Sensation.

Calcutta, Jan. 18.—The first instance of disaffection among the native troops in connection with the present agitation has occurred here and has caused a decided sensation.

Ten soldiers of a native regiment called the Tenth Fate have been arrested for sedition, which is ascribed to the propaganda which has been carried on Bengal agitators for several months.

Baltimore Sun Changes Hands.

Baltimore, Jan. 18.—Henry White, former ambassador to France, and Julian Leroy White, his brother, are interested, with Charles H. Grant, in the purchase of a controlling interest in the Baltimore Sun, which was founded by A. S. Abell in 1836 and has been in the Abell family ever since. Friction among the heirs is said to have brought about the sale. The price paid for the controlling interest is reported to have been over $2,000,000, the building and site being valued at over $1,000,000.

Miners Threaten to Strike.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Jan. 18.—Miners at the South Wilkes-Barre colliery of the Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Coal company are threatening to go on strike because General Manager Charles L. Huber has refused their request for the appointment of a check docking boss.
